It's time to end this Microsoft issue. At this point I think the issue has changed to who is going to win and how much. This is at great expense to tax payers and stockholders. Enough is enough let's get on with American competition the way it was intended to be not with all this government intervention. If the corporations doing all the crying would apply those resources to product development and marketing they might be able to improve market share. They won't do it in the courts they will only hurt taxpayers and stockholders.

Where would the PC be today if not for Microsoft? One thing is for sure we can't count on justice and fair play not after what we saw from the Supreme Court a year ago in the decision for Bush!
